Dear Parent/Guardian(s),

During the past three weeks your child has been a student in my class at the Summer Academy. Academy courses are crafted to emphasize content, creativity, problem-solving and higher-level thinking. Opportunities are arranged that encourage the student's development of respect for self and other individuals. During the very brief period of the Academy, as I taught, observed and interacted with your child, I noticed the following characteristics that might be of interest to you.

I would expect that other characteristics might be highlighted in a different situation, either due to a change in peer group or a change in course content.
